

JAPANESE ARMY SEEKS TO FIGHT

Reports From The Front Indicate Activity On Part Of Mikado's Men.

THE PEACE PACT DOES NOT PLEASE

Soldiers Are Dissatisfied With Result Of Negotiations At Portsmouth--Rumors Say Death Awaits Komura On Return.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—Consternation has been caused in official circles by reports from the front, which indicate that the Japanese army is still fighting, and that the Russians are inclined to make an issue at arms with them, in utter disregard of the fact that peace has been concluded on paper at Portsmouth.

The most disquieting news comes from Gen. Linevitch himself, who wires under date of Sept. 3, giving the details of a series of sharp encounters. The late date of the dispatch from the commander-in-chief is its most serious feature, as it comes at a time when every man in both armies knows that the representatives of the czar and the mikado have decided officially to end the war.

In his telegram of Sunday Gen. Linevitch naively lays the blame for the fighting on the Japanese, declaring that on Sept. 1 six battalions of Japanese, with twelve guns, made a series of well-planned and systematic assaults on Russian positions in northern Korea.

Japs Start Movement.

They were repulsed, according to Gen. Linevitch, but he departs from his usual custom in not giving the number of casualties on either side. Simultaneously with this series of attacks, he says, the Japanese commenced an offensive movement against the Russian troops in the neighborhood of Kiankeregou, in Petchengouliou pass.

Supplementing these advices are reports from various points in the field, notable among which is that the Japanese army is loading and priming, polishing and provisioning for battle. Their advance lines are in touch with those of the Russians—so close that conversation nightly takes place between the pickets—and the general report brought in by the troops of the czar is that the brown men are frantic for fight.

That the Japanese are dissatisfied with the manner in which the negotiations at Portsmouth ended there can be no doubt. They are itching for battle, and what is even more serious, the Russians are inclined to give it to them.

Most of the Russian officers, from Gen. Linevitch down, are filled with chagrin that the army was not given one more chance to retrieve itself before hostilities were called off, and they are still chafing under the desire to measure strength and prowess with the foe.

WILL WAGE WAR ON THE CARBON TRUST

Competing Company Enters Field of National Concern at Cleveland, Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 5.—The United States Carbon company today started to turn out carbon products, thereby installing itself as the most formidable rival of the National Carbon company or carbon trust. It is understood on the best of authority that Rockefeller interests are behind the United States Carbon company, which intends to establish branch plants in the natural gas belts of Ohio, thus building up a mammoth organization to compete with the trust. The new concern has a capitalization of $1,000,000, while the National Carbon company has a capital of $4,500,000, 7 per cent preferred stock and $5,500,000 common stock.

Greene-Gaynor Case

Montreal, Que., Sept. 5.—Argument for the writ of habeas corpus in the Greene-Gaynor case, which has been postponed several times, was begun here today. This habeas corpus application is on the ground that the magistrate had no power to try their case.

Order of Red Men

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 5.—The biennial session of the national assembly of the United Order of Red Men began here today and will continue throughout tomorrow. The visitors include Under Chief Henry Bricker of New Jersey, George Bangor of New York, grand secretary, and other distinguished members of the organization.

Secretary of State Root, with his two sons, and Colonel Sanger of New York, arrived in St. John, N. B., from Halifax.

The men welcome the end of the war—in a way—but they do not want to return home without a last try-out.
Start Big Prairie Fire.

Three thousand Japanese who on Aug. 27 descended on Port Dekastries (opposite the island of Sakhalin and sixty miles northwest of the Sakhalin town of Alexandrovsk, set fire to a grass-covered steppe. The conflagration took on serious proportions.

The Novoe Vremya says that it understands that General Linevitch will retain the command of the military and naval forces in the far east with the title of imperial lieutenant.

The Soviet says that Russia, owing to the proximity of Japan and the necessity of upholding the shattered power and prestige of Russia, will be obliged constantly to maintain 300,000 troops in the far east.

Army Ripe for Revolt.

New York, Sept. 5.—That Baron Komura will be killed when he returns to Japan; that the Camur blood is boiling to the point of revolt; that the mikado's throne has been undermined by the peace he has made, and that the army and its generals, as the dominant force in Japan to-day, will ignore the doings at Portsmouth on the other side of the world and draw a new map of the Orient, according to its own ideas—these are the dire predictions of a newspaper correspondent, a close professional student of affairs within the mikado's empire, who has just returned to New York.

Among his assertions are these: "The Mikado dynasty is in peril. Indemnity was an article of faith with the army, backed by the populace."

"I am speaking moderately when I say that a popular revolution, backed by the army, is the most likely solution."

"The army is drunk with power and with dreams of future glory. It looks upon civil politics with suspicion and contempt."

"It will accuse the mikado and President Roosevelt of selling out the empire."

"The Samurai blood of the army is on fire. Nothing else counts in Japan to-day. General Kodama, Oyama's chief of staff, will be the leader of a military revolution, if one occurs; Hasagata, Oku and Goto will follow him."

"The press is for war; the army is for war; the populace is for war. The world may well hold its breath during the next thirty days—especially England."

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Those in the cars ahead of the private one seemed to suffer the most. The chair car and two Pullmans in the center of the train were dented. Among the injured is M. H. Schuy of Chillicothe, Mo., and a man named Brennan of West Virginia.

Ambassador and Mrs. Reid and other members of the American Embassy and relatives were present. Canon Benson officiated. The bride wore a French gray crepe de chene. She carried a bouquet of orchids and wore a brooch of pearls and diamonds and huge pearl car rings. Mr. Field wore a tiny American flag in his button-hole. The bride was unattended and given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Eddy of Chicago. Marshall Field, Jr., a son of the bridegroom, was best man. After the ceremony the party went to Claridge's for their wedding breakfast.

YOUNG MILLIONAIRE HAS POOR HEALTH

Templeton Crocker Reaches His Majority and Will Soon Secure Possession of His Inheritance.

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—Charles Templeton Crocker, only son of the late millionaire, Colonel Charles Fred Crocker, was 21 years old Saturday, and will come into his inheritance next week.

When Colonel Crocker, son of one of the original "big four" Central Pacific railroad builders, died eight years ago he left an estate of $8,000,000, to be divided equally between Templeton and two sisters. Since then the estate has nearly doubled, so that now it is estimated each of the heirs will get between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, making them the richest children in California. Mary, the oldest, who married young Burton Harrison, lives in New York, while Jennie, the youngest, is still at school.

Templeton has been well educated, but he is of frail physique, and has had hard luck. When very young he fell over the banisters at his father's country home, near Burlingame, and for a long time his life was despaired of.

Then, three years ago, while driving a spirited horse, he was thrown out of a trap and his telegraph pole, breaking both his legs above the knee. He has escaped being a cripple, but he cannot get much enjoyment out of his big fortune.

HUNDREDS DIE FROM CHOLERA

Authorities Of Galicia And Bukovina Seek To Conceal The Truth.

IS SPREADING OVER GREAT AREA

Imperial Health Officers At Berlin Report The Plague As Attacking Persons In Districts That Are Not Yet Quarantined.

London, Sept. 5.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Vienna says that 200 deaths from cholera in the provinces of Galicia and Bukovina have been concealed by the authorities under the description of European cholera.

Health Officers Are Baffled.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—The peculiar spread of cholera is baffling the imperial health office, and the officials feel concern more or less grave. Ten new cases and three deaths occurred Monday, making seventy cases and twenty-three deaths.

Most of the new cases do not occur among the quarantined persons, but are suddenly heard of in detached farm houses or villages not contiguous to the Vistula. The inference is that the infected areas are widening slowly, and that the measures to hold the disease strictly within the existing boundaries have not been successful. These measures, however, are being increased.

Orders have been issued to close all the refreshment houses along the Vistula except those located in towns. These small restaurants and bars are frequented by river men, who are the most likely to be infected.

The government fears cholera will invade this city, and is erecting barracks for patients or suspects.

Public Meetings Are Postponed.

The Marienwerder district, in west Prussia, reported five new cases of the plague in three towns. All gathering of societies, agricultural, veteran or religious, has been postponed on account of the fear of disseminating the disease.

Eight cases and three deaths were reported in the Barmberg district, in Prussia, in six small towns, while Culm reported four deaths among its nine cases of cholera, with the scope of observation widening.

The American consul, H. W. Dietrich, at Bremen, informed the North German Lloyd Steamship company that all Russian emigrants intended for America must be held six days in quarantine before being permitted to embark from Bremen.

No New Cases at Hamburg.

Hamburg authorities declare there are no new cases there and the further spread of the disease is improbable. The detained Russian immigrants are kept aboard the North German Lloyd ship Bulgaria in midstream in the Elbe. In the four days of their detention none has shown a trace of cholera and in another day, if none appears, they will be allowed to proceed to the United States.

The government has instituted a strict quarantine along the entire Russian frontier. The cholera in west Russia is worse than it has been for many years, and some sporadic cases crossed the frontier, but they have been confined mostly to the river districts.

Assistant Surgeon McLaughlin, who has been ordered to Hamburg from Naples by Surgeon General Wyman, has been directed to be prepared to enforce the United States treasury regulations relative to ships leaving for American ports.

Plague Takes Off Gendarme.

Vienna, Sept. 5.—A gendarme died of cholera at Padew, in Galicia. There have been six fatal cases there.

France to Protect Frontier.

Paris, Sept. 5.—The ministry of the interior has adopted energetic measures to protect the frontiers against cholera from Germany. Dr. Chantemesse, head of the Pasteur institute, has been called from his vacation to organize a precautionary service. Instructions have been wired along the frontier to require a rigid inspection of the passports of parties arriving from Hamburg and other suspect points, and ordering the detention and disinfection of merchandise and baggage.

Denies Plague Outbreak.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—The ministry of the interior has denied that the Caucasus and the Transcaucasian territory are threatened with an outbreak of cholera.

DESIRE STATEHOOD AND PROHIBITION

Indians of "Territory" Gathered in General Convention, Resume Work.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Muscogee, I. T., Sept. 5.—The general convention of the Indians, adjourned the third week in August for the purpose of giving the constitutional and finance and campaign committees an opportunity for organizing their work, resumed its session today. Nearly all of the leading tribes of Indians have been heard from and expressed a willingness to separate statehood, declaring at the same time for prohibition. One of the most important problems for the convention to consider will be that of public schools. The Indians are desirous of making plans for continuing the present system of national schools after March 4, but their most urgent need at present is to arrange for funds for the future. The Indians for the last fifty years have increased their educational facilities until today they have a system equal that of any state of the southwest. Among other problems to be solved will be the disposition of lands of minors. When the tribal governments cease there will be no law governing these matters. Under the tribal law, property goes to the next blood relation and can only be willed to a member from and expressed a willingness to separate statehood, declaring at the

PORTSMOUTH PEACE TREATY DRAWN UP COMPLETE TODAY

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Portsmouth, September 5.—It is expected that the preliminary business now before the peace envoys of Russia and Japan will keep them busy until four o'clock and the treaty, which was drawn up in articles this morning, will not actually be signed until four o'clock. mines connected with her branch.

Article 7. That they contract to make a junction of the two branches.

Article 8. That the roads shall work without obstruction.

Article 9. That Russia cedes the southern half of Sakhalin island to Japan.

Article 10. And that Japan provides freedom of Russians in southern Sakhalin.

Article 11. That the Russian government grant fishing rights to the Japanese on the Pkhotsk and Behring seas.

Article 12. That the countries engage to renew the commercial treaty.

Article 13. That both agree to restore the prisoners when expenses of keeping are paid.

Article 14. That the treaty be signed in French and English.

Article 15. That it shall be signed by the sovereigns of Russia and Japan within fifty days after the envoys sign.

Two other articles provide that the evacuation be completed within eighteen months and that the boundary between the halves of Sakhalin island be definitely marked by a commission.

"A gudgeon won't believe in a pike until he is swallowed up alive." And the "amateur landlord" won't believe in a "dead-beat" tenant until he is well-bitten. Then it requires "quick advertising" to set things right.

that the adventure is well timed. This is on the same line of policy pursued by this firm in regard to American fabrics—purchasing them direct from the manufacturers for cash, thereby saving all intermediate profits. Chicago may justly feel proud of such a house.—Chicago Tribune, August 25.

Gen. Grant at Home.—A Galena man writes that during his stay there, each morning Gen. Grant takes a turn among his old comrades, chatting freely. To one of his fellow clerks he said that he had two horses for which he could get $5,000 each for, and one he could get $1,000 for, which he should leave with some good trainer in New York for two years. The General intimated that he might go to Europe. The writer says:

"One gentleman said that while Gen. Grant was in the old store, clerking, a gentleman asked how his military clerk got on. The answer was, 'He can do up a bundle after trying two or three times,' and then turning to our hero, said, 'Ulysses, what are you good for?' Grant replied, 'I don't know; this business doesn't suit me.' Such anecdotes are current among his old friends at Galena, who knew nothing of his genius, yet undeveloped by circumstances, but only knew him as a quiet, humble man, but a great chess player."

We did not suppose that the trade of Chicago should justify such an enterprise, but upon ascertaining the immense business done by the firm, exceeding largely that done by any other firm outside of New York—and surpassed there only by three—we are satisfied

WHAT HAS RUSSIA LOST?

Thanks to a certain freedom from prejudice in using weapons of diplomacy to which other people might object on the score of dignity, or even common honor, Russia's history shows many more victories for her statesmen than her soldiers. She has made peace with Japan on terms which she could scarcely have hoped for at the opening of negotiations at Portsmouth. The czar, in fact, thanks to the tact and ability of M. Witte and Baron Rosen, has been able to "cover his shorts" in a way which lets him out of a very bad position, with only losses such as diplomacy could have retrieved.

Leaving the increased internal and external indebtedness out of the case altogether, as a matter of small moment in a nation with such potential resources as Russia has, we may consider her actual loss. It is safe to estimate her war expenditure at $10,- 000,000 a week, or $800,000,000 for the entire period of the war. In addition to this, she has lost 73 war vessels, whose value may be reckoned at least at $150,000,000, but which would probably cost $200,000,000 to replace, even supposing that the men to make them satisfactory fighting machines could be found. The figures look enormous, but we have no hesitation in saying that they represent the smallest part of the Russian loss. Unfortunately lives are cheap enough with a population of 140,000,- 000 to draw upon, mostly peasants, so that the "butcher's bill" need hardly be considered.

Russia loses definitely, and probably for all time, her preponderance in the councils of China. In losing this she loses also the position of the dominant power in the eastern Pacific which she probably enjoyed before the outbreak of the war. She loses the control of 400 miles of railroad giving the only access to an ice-free port in the Pacific. All her expenditure upon the harbor of Dalny and the fortifications at Port Arthur goes to enrich her late adversary.
Her timber concessions in the Yalu valley become waste paper, and her voice in the affairs of Korea is no greater than that of the smallest power doing business with the hermit kingdom.

Japan could easily concede the interned Russian war vessels and the right to maintain a fleet in the Pacific.
Any naval force which Russia can maintain in those waters in the next twenty years will be a fleet on paper only, badly equipped, ill-manned, without prestige, without confidence in its own strength, certain to be shut up in the harbor of Vladivostok in the event of hostilities with any other naval power. Even on paper Russia has lost rank as a naval power. She has herself conclusively demonstrated what paper estimates of fleets are worth.

Her army has been beaten in every great engagement, and will now have no chance of retrieving its credit in the eyes of the world. Her greatest generals have proved incompetent and corrupt. Her soldiers have shown courage and fidelity, but an absolute lack of individual intelligence which is appalling. That heterogeneous collection of Asiatic tribes which forms her Siberian empire bows only to force and prestige. She has still the one, but in the eyes of all Asiatic peoples she has become a power to be flouted when opportunity offers.
Her dreams of the conquest of India, all the intricate diplomacy to that end of the past quarter of a century, vanish into thin air. With the best of good government it will take her twenty-five years to become in Asia what she was in the beginning of 1904.

In the councils of the world Russia is still a great power—one of the greatest. But her standing is nothing like so great as it was before the unfortunate conflict with Japan.
She has strained her relations with her old ally, France, who regards her now merely as a debtor and powerless to protect against pressure from Germany, which was the one object of the Franco-Russian alliance. In return she has gained some interested support from the German Emperor, but at the expense of throwing

France into the arms of her great British rival.

Some day there may arise a Napoleon in Russia able enough to realize some of its potential wealth and unite its various people under a common bond of patriotic nationality. Such a Napoleon, thanks to the war, will always have on his eastern flank an island power which may be to him what the English islanders were to his great prototype.

And yet there may emerge from the horrible carnage and waste a new Russia, growing in self-government, responsibility and righteousness. The fearful price may prove to have been not too great. An essentially corrupt and incompetent government is utterly discredited in the eyes of the whole world, but it was the plebian Witte to whom the grand dukes and the bureaucracy had to turn to undo part of their mistakes. We may well believe that this power of the middle class will grow, while the power of corrupt government will wane, and that in growing it will draw the great Russian people up with it. Indeed from this point of view, Russia may in the final analysis, find that she has gained more from the war than she has lost, immense as her losses are. For some time past her more intelligent statesmen have regarded the Manchurian undertaking as "a closed incident," and they are already planning schemes of industrial and agricultural development in other directions.

CONGRATULATIONS

Since the close of the peace conference the newspaper correspondents have been busy explaining to their readers how correctly they foreshadowed the result, and the newspapers have been busy explaining to their readers how thoroughly they have been kept informed of everything. So far as our observation goes, after the event each and every newspaper and press association was the first to correctly foreshadow and announce the same.

But how is it that no newspaper has as yet told its readers that their reporter was "the first to acquaint President Roosevelt with the joyful tidings?" We have always understood that this was part of the regular procedure. Why was it overlooked?

PRESS COMMENT.

Madison Journal: The governor will not speak at the state fair this year. That orange sucked dry, Bob?

Milwaukee News: It is observed that the people are not rising as one man to insist that a "reformer" be nominated to the office of governor.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Now that the papers will be robbed of war news perhaps they will be willing to again turn their attention to the troubles of the "sultan of Turkey."

Exchange: The will of Gen. W.
W. Blackmar contains $45,000 in general bequests and $12,000 in public bequests. To the G. A. R. of which he was commander, Gen. Blackmar bequeathed $3,000.

Bau Claire Leader: An Illinois
man went to church in Minneapolis, and after listening to a sermon on Jonah arose in his pew and shot himself dead. This undoubtedly will stir up all the funny men on all the newspapers in this country.

Milwaukee News: It seems that Walter Wellman's "great journalistic triumph" in giving the details of peace based upon Russia's decision to pay an indemnity would have been a remarkable achievement if Japan had gotten the kopecks.

Edgerton Eagle: A Rockford lady picked the second crop of strawberries this season from her vines last week. Janesville immediately got into line and had a luscious crop ripened, picked and eaten the following day. Though "not dead but sleeping" there is nothing slow about Janesville's nightmares. Next!

Appleton Crescent: Madison wants a new high school building and the people voted therefor not long since.
Women's votes cast in favor of the proposition carrying it. But an injunction has been served on city officials to prevent issuance of bonds, etc., on the ground of alleged illegality. While Madison is putting along Appleton's fine high school edifice will soon be ready for occupancy.

Marquette Eagle-Star: Michigan is going to try the experiment of nominating the successor of Gen. Alger in the United States senate by the popular vote of republican primaries.
One of the candidates has expressed a wish that this course be taken, and the others are said to be willing.
This is the first time this plan of naming a senatorial candidate in Michigan has been tried, and it will be watched with interest.

Wausau Record: And, behold, now cometh one and several friends of one Lemroth and they depose and yell to one La Follette, crying that he should force those free citizens, McGilvray, Connor, Davidson and Houser, to withdraw their right to aspire, that the dear "people" may have the full right under the liberty loving primary election law to endorse of their own free will untrammelled by any machine, that same Lemroth even as they are directed by the aforesaid La Follette.

Chicago News: Sun flames leap up 8,100 miles, according to measurements made during the eclipse.
That is a good many miles when you come to think of it. More than a man could comfortably walk before breakfast provided the miles were lying down. In this case they reached up, so that the walking of them would be impossible anyway. As a dazzling spectacle the sun still has the hotel clerk's diamond cast slightly in the shade and as a grand illumination it almost equals some of Chicago's amusement parks, real and projected.

Evening Wisconsin: One of the significant events of the week has been the sale of the concession for the construction of the Canton-Hankow railroad, which was purchased by the Chinese government from the American owners for $6,700,000. The concession was obtained ten years ago, when the feeling in China with reference to Americans was more cordial than it is now. It was believed by the directors of the company, which is a New Jersey corporation, under the name of the American China Development company, that if the concession was not sold it would be revoked—and they naturally concluded that would be better for them to get something than nothing. Japan is the coming power in Russia. The obvious probability is that the railroad will be built by Japan.

Superior Telegram: The Equitable directors make a sorry defense in answer to the charges brought against them when they plead ignorance. It is a defense that ought not to stand. "These things were not known to the whole board of directors," they say. Why were they not known? What are directors for, if not to know how their companies are being managed? Are they to be mere dummies, figureheads, behind whose backs dishonest men may plunder that trust them? Are they to furnish a mask of respectability for unworthy, money-mad speculators?
Stuff and nonsense! The man who accepts the trusteeship which attaches to the office of director, whether in a life insurance company or a bank or what not is not to be excused for gross negligence on the ground that he "didn't know." He ought to know. That's his business.

Appleton Post: The democracy of Wisconsin is a confused mass without leaders, not amenable to leadership and uncertain whether they are followers of La Follette, Bryan, the socialists or Cleveland. They do not know where they are at. Just now, there appears to be a movement looking toward centering on Bryan. The bulk of the voters care but little about it, since the party experience of the last two state campaigns. The label of democracy has been pasted in turn on anything which looked conspicuous and large enough to hold it. Whatever it is pasted on, is at once hailed as the real, old, honored Jeffersonian doctrine. They are all Jeffersonians, of course; they know it and are not backward in proclaiming it. So Jim Ryan and his sort are not just right and Chairman Bruce of Milwaukee may become head of the state committee. Bryan's visit to the state has infused new courage in Mat Regan, W. H. Rogers and George W. Bird and their kind. The democracy of the state is to be again reorganized to fit the new situation.
Anyway, these Wisconsin democrats have courage.

Collier's Weekly: A traditional right has been invaded. That square mile of fresh air, in which every inhabitant of Wyoming has been accustomed to breathe and find elbow-room, is squeezed and clipped, about the edges. The census of 1905 shows that 101,819 people must be crowded into Wyoming's 97,890 square miles.
Wyoming is filled up. To the effect and cabin citizen of the east a square mile of empty air seems a dread immensity of space, an abundant of superfluous breath. For the free-born denizen of the land of the Big Horn and the North Platte it is no more than enough. In 1880 there were nearly two miles of territory for each inhabitant, and in 1890 one and one-half miles. In 1900 each man could still have more than one square mile to himself. Ever the band grows tighter. From the green reaches of Laramie county, from the Yellowstone and Powder rivers we seem to hear the distant rumble of rising discontent. On the lonely banks of the Stinking Water the Hon. Buffalo B. Cody sits himself. The only Powell, his trusty side-partner—next to the last of the great scouts—joins
in. Their voices thunder in a dull antiphonal chorus: "Give us air!"
There are two rays of hope. The 1905 census of Iowa shows a falling off of 15,735 since the federal census five years ago. And there is always Nevada. There are over 119,000 square miles in Nevada and only about 42,000 people—almost three square miles for every man.

"The Good Old Days" Exchange: A writer in a New York fashion magazine pleads for the good old days when simplicity reigned and a blanket took the place of trousers and a boiled shirt. He is one of those fellows who think that a Greek costume means true happiness. Every little while somebody starts a crusade to force men into knee breeches, or smalls, which would be pretty tough on our bow-legged men. What nonsense. The good old days are a myth.
The Greeks looked as sloppy as a reservation Indian, and the fashions of the so-called good old days were generally founded on the fool ideas of some crack-brained monarch. At one time the most fashionable collar was called "J. Isbarn," or the Isbella. There is a story connected with that. Isabella, daughter of Phillip II, vowed not to change her linen until Ostend was taken. The siege lasted three years, which was rather tough on the lady, and the linen became very dingy. But it gave rise to this fashionable collar. The fashion of wearing the hair short became the correct thing because Francine I. had to have his hair cropped owing to a wound. The decollete gown was first worn by Isabella of Bavaria who had a neck and shoulders that were worth going miles to see. She was so proud of them that she had to parade them. In the time of Charles V. short and tight trousers became so much the rage that the government of France banished the word by edict. Never sigh for the good old days. Modern times are samer, healthier and better in every way. We are slaves of fashion, but our slavery is mixed with common sense, which is good for us all.

Dilemma of La Follette: The legislature has elected Mr. La Follette to the office of United States senator. He is expected to resign the office of governor to qualify for the office of senator. His retirement from the office of governor will open—in fact has opened—the field to those of his followers that aspire to the executive office. There are now three recognized candidates for the office among his supporters, and more are expected to come forward as the time for holding the primaries approaches.

The presence of these candidates in the field is disquieting to Mr. La Follette and threatening to his continued supremacy in state government and control of the republican state organization. If the caucus and convention system were in force in Wisconsin "the machine" could arrange that the candidate developing the greatest strength should have the support of the "reform" faction in the state convention. But there will be no state convention and the republican candidate having the largest number of votes will be the nominee of the party. If the opposition to the La Follette "machine" should agree in advance upon a candidate to support at the primaries there would be a fair chance of nominating its candidate, especially should there be two or more "reform" candidates in the field.
None of the "reform" aspirants is so conspicuous as to be the "logical" successor of Governor La Follette.
Through the instrumentality of his "machine" the governor might bring pressure to bear upon the various "reform" candidates and force the requirement of all but one, to be selected by the "machine." But Mr. La Follette has asked his supporters that have aspired to the office of governor to sacrifice themselves so many times for himself and to give him opportunity to have a clear field that they are not in a mood to "lay down." It is an embarrassing situation in which the La Follette organization finds itself. It is without an "issue" of any force and it is without a candidate capable of commanding the support that has been given to Mr. La Follette in his successive campaigns for the republican gubernatorial nomination. With more than one candidate at the primaries defeat threatens it.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

There is nothing divine in dullness.
Sulkiness is only selfishness turned sour.
Gilding the wagon does not ease the springs.
Many great souls have been lost by little sins.
Blessed is the sorrow that cures of selfishness.
The religion that lacks sunshine is all moonshine.
The path to perdition is lubricated
with smooth talk.
The best place to pray for corn is between the rows.
There is a lot of difference between foresight and fear.
Believe that a man is bad and he will not go back on it.
Many a man will wear wings who cannot tie an Ascot tie.
The reward of mastering one difficulty is to meet another.
The heavenly chariot cannot be drawn by a clothes horse.
To the hypocrite one man's religion is another man's revenue.
If you cannot see heaven here you will never see it anywhere.

make up for putty in the pulpit.

which is kept in the cold storage pocket.

for those who are too poor to buy clothes.—Henry F. Cope in Chicago

WISDOM'S WHISPERS.

A change of views is apt to be based on a strong mental reservation.

The good talker holds fast to his opinion of the one to whom he is talking.

A frown lingers in the memory long enough to be returned with generous interest.

Happiness is easily lost when it comes as the result of a stated purchase price.

Sympathy goes a great way toward creating a feeling that can be mistaken for love.

The better the reputation the harder is it to secure the rewards which really belong to it.

Many fatal blunders are due to the belief that friendly advice was not carefully disinterested.

There is more satisfaction in telling of your mistakes than to have someone else do it for you.

The want of worthy motive has caused many a scaling down in the value of a seeming service.

actions in this world than the most able computer can calculate.

SERMONETTES.

It is a mighty strong friendship that can survive the test of benefits conferred.

BOYCOTT ENDS ON ARRIVAL OF TAFT

Secretary's Trip in the Flowery Kingdom Tends to Check Embargo Placed on American Trade.

Hong-Kong, Sept. 5.—Secretary Taft and party arrived Monday morning and went at once to the American consulate, where the members were met by a battalion of the viceroys guards. After a reception at the con-sulate the party became guests of the new Canton railway, covering its entire district. At 1 o'clock the visitors were entertained at luncheon by invitation of the viceroys, who, however, was ill and unable to be present. His representative made a speech, referring to the friendly relations between the Chinese nation and America.

Secretary Taft, in his response, said that by direction of the president he was pleased to note the friendly relations of the two countries. The United States did not want one foot or one acre of the soil of China. The secretary said he thought the boycott of American goods was unreasonable violation of treaty rights and conditions between the two countries, and declared that he was glad the viceroys had ordered the boycott stopped.

The party's trip to Canton has had an immense effect, and it is believed that within two weeks the boycott will end.

The viceroys on Monday morning gave notice that he had ordered the boycott to be declared off and all of its leaders to be arrested and punished.

RICKETTS REFUSES TO RESIGN.

Foreman of Government Printing Office Ignores Palmer's Order.
Washington, Sept. 5.—Oscar J.
Ricketts, foreman of the government printing office, whose resignation was peremptorily demanded by Public Printer Palmer, is still clinging to his place. He visited the big printery Monday and spent several hours at his desk. Ricketts and his friends obviously are of the opinion that if they force a showdown with General Palmer, President Roosevelt will intervene and save the foreman. Their belief in this result is strengthened by the visit of Civil Service Commissioner Cooley to Oyster Bay for the purpose of consulting the president about General Palmer's recent order.

GUARDIAN FOR A MILLIONAIRE

Wealthy Farmer's Generosity Leads Wife to Believe Him Insane.
Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 5.—A genuine sensation has been created by the commencement of proceedings to have a guardian appointed for Irving D.
Smith of Lake county, known as the millionaire farmer of South Dakota.
The proceedings were instituted in behalf of his wife. It is asserted that Mr. Smith is mentally unable to handle the business of his estate. His generous benefactions have attracted a host of besiegers, who are insistent upon donations for all sorts of purposes. To date Mr. Smith has donated to his wife, tenants and various relatives, an aggregate of 29,720 acres, valued at $679,200.

Hunter Death to Tigers.
A traveler returned from India relates that at Andarokh, in central India, he killed four full-grown tigers with five shots in under six minutes, the first three being single shots.

A Lucky Stomach.
The risks of dining just before a railway journey are insufficiently appreciated. Had the gentleman mentioned in the following passage been discontent with food at the time of the accident, it is awful to think what his fate might have been. "At Cannon street," says the Weekly Dispatch, "a passenger and a goods train collided.
The former was fortunately empty, and there were no injuries."—London Punch.

THE FORBIDDEN LAND
SCORED A BIG HIT

Comic Opera Which Opened Season
at Myers Theatre Last Evening, Pleased a Large Audience.

There were so many recalls last evening for the performers in "The For-bidden Land," a comic opera given its first presentation for the season by the reorganized company at the Myers theatre yesterday afternoon, that it was nearly midnight when the curtain was rung down on the grand finale. The audience was well pleased with the offering itself, the lyrics and lines, attractive stage settings, and the wealth of, brand new costumes. The chorus work was more than good and the whole cast was well-drilled, well-balanced, and competent. Edward Garvie as the roly-poly, cherubic health-food man from Battle Ax, Michigan, was in the good graces of the onlookers of Tibet and Janesville from the beginning and with Charles Morgan, billed as "chief of the Amalgamated Beggars of Asia," and W. H. Clarke, the potentate of the Forbidden Land, were responsible for many mirth-provoking situations and their song "The Almighty Dollar" was encored seven times. Alma Youlin's beautiful soprano was a constant delight and Mabel Laffin as the demure little Dorothy Fairfax succeeded in making the "heart interest" interesting. Grace McCarthy was not less a favorite as "Hulda," the Scandinavian maid, and her dialect songs and dancing, as well as her absurd gestures and postures in the courtship of the unwilling Battle Ax food magnate immediately
"connected." Hughie Flaherty's Hindoo fakir who repeatedly chastised himself of his sins, was a rich contribution. His prison scene with the jig was greeted with a roar of applause. Thomas Cameron, the inevitable lover in the production, has a good voice and performs his part well. The company left this morning for Freeport.

SOME DON'TS.

Don't be ungrateful.
Don't be discouraged, but try, try,
try again.
Don't be selfish. Don't live for yourself alone.
Don't be ashamed if you are poor.
Poverty is no disgrace.
Don't be afraid. There is nothing to be afraid of except wrong doing.
Don't loiter. If you must lean, lean straight back and drop your shoulders.
Don't neglect your personal appearance. Cleanliness is next to godliness.
Don't neglect to develop all the forces for good which are within you.
Don't be ashamed to confess when you are in the wrong and to ask for pardon.
Don't do things in a half-hearted way. If a thing is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.
Don't be ashamed of working. Work is honorable. William Morris said:
"He who works not, neither shall he eat!"—Henry Cusack in New York Press.

The Student Encouraged.
Prof. Sylvester Burnham was once asked by one of his not very industrious students whether he thought Hebrew would be the language of heaven. The genial professor replied:
"I am not sure; but it would be safe for you to be well prepared."—Boston Watchman.

Germ Destroying Solution.
The inspector of the disinfection office of Turin, Italy, has instituted an innovation in destroying germs in dwellings. He uses a 1 per cent solution of sal soda for cleansing the floors, whereby the bacilli of diphtheria and typhus are killed in one minute.

TEACHER OUTWITS THE BOARD

Becomes a Bride After She Is Assigned for Present Year.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 5.—The Terre Haute school board admitted it had been outwitted when Mrs. Nellie Falvey Price's name was reached in making assignments of teachers for the school year, because, while the board has a right not to employ married women as teachers, she had married before the time of her employment, which was by formal action of the board a few weeks ago, and the time when teachers were to be assigned. It was a new question and the board believed that should she not have assigned she might have recovered on her contract in a suit in court. The board is wondering what the effect will be on other schoolteachers next summer.

BARGAIN DAY

CARGILL LAID CORNER STONE

CEREMONIES PERFORMED OUT OF DOORS THIS AFTERNOON.

BISHOP FOWLER IS SPEAKER

Delivered the Address of the Services—Large Crowd Forms Audience.

With proper ceremonies and services, in which Bishop C. H. Fowler of New York City delivered the principal address, W. W. Cargill, grain elevator magnate and millionaire of La Crosse whose donation of ten thousand dollars made possible a new church, laid the corner-stone of the Cargill Memorial Methodist Church now in the course of construction at the corner of South Franklin and Pleasant streets this afternoon. The attendance was very large and the crowds blocked the two streets, listening attentively to all that was said and the beautiful music that was rendered. The following was the program.

Cornet Solo—"The Holy City," Prof. W. T. Thiele.
Hymn—"Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Ritual Service.
Prayer, E. S. McChesney, D. D.
Scripture Lesson, I Cor. 3:9-23.
Hymn No. 2.
Address, Bishop Charles H. Fowler, D. D.
Laying Corner-stone by W. W. Cargill.
Benediction.

In the Corner-stone.
In a casket of galvanized iron hermetically sealed the following articles were locked up in the corner-stone: Bible; "Methodist Discipline," the laws of the church; a copy of the Christian Advocate of the issue of August 30; a copy of the last Epworth Herald; a Janesville Gazette of September 4; a Janesville Recorder of September 5; a picture of Rev. J. H. Tippett, and a program of the services containing the names of the quarterly conference members and the officers of the various church societies.

WIS. TELEPHONE MEN ARE IN CONFERENCE

Officers of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. are in conference here today with representatives of their contracting companies in the Janesville district. The object of the meeting is to get acquainted with one another and discuss plans and methods for extending and enlarging as well as improving the service. Those who sat down to a dinner tendered by the company at the Myers House were: President A. Burt of Milwaukee, General Manager E. B. Cockrell, Engineer C. W. Burkett, Traffic Manager F. H. Lincoln, Special Agent H. O. Seymour, Janesville District Manager B. A. Oliver, Racine District Manager E. B. Erb, and the following officers of the allied lines: Messrs. Coon and McKenna of the Edgerton Co., Messrs. Richmond and Loyd of the Evansville Co., Mr. Leon of the Elkhorn Co., Messrs. Ellis and Silkworth of the "Franksville Co., Mr. Waller of the Burlington, Rochester & Kansasville Co., Messrs. Penhalligan and Anderson of the Mineral Point Co., and Messrs. Twining and Weirick of Monroe. "Before spring we expect to have installed in your city a new switch-board which will enable the subscriber to communicate with central by simply lifting the receiver," said President Burt. "It is only the question of a few years when we shall have to erect a building of our own here. We are putting up one to cost $250,000 in Milwaukee now." Green Bay, Racine, and other cities have them and Janesville is next in line. Of these contracting companies we have in the state 250 connecting with our trunk lines and 15,000 telephones are operated by them. In addition to these 15,000 we have 45,000 telephones of our own in Wisconsin. The storms this year have caused us considerable trouble as may be imagined when one comes to consider that we have 23,000 miles of toll wire alone."

A Celebrated Palmist

Mme. Lynn, now with the carnival, is one of the most celebrated palmists in America. Her home is near Pittsburgh, Pa., where she has one of the finest residences in that section of the country. She has been a great traveler and spends her winters in the south and the summers in the north. She has been very successful in her chosen profession. Instead of reading the lines of the hand she studies the whole hand and the countenance. Her charges are twenty-five and fifty cents. Her tent is located on the corner near the Gazette office.

"The Christian Adventists." The meetings held in the tent on Glen street are still increasing in interest. In spite of unfavorable weather the attendance is good. Several have renewed their covenant with God, and the outlook is favorable for a work of grace among the unconverted. The moral and prayerful support of all Christians in the neighborhood is desired.

BEST HORSE RACES HELD IN THE STATE

From the Dawn of Its History Will Be Seen at the Great Fair Which Open at Milwaukee Monday.

"Beyond a doubt, the best horse-racing ever seen in Wisconsin will be witnessed by those who attend the state fair which opens at Milwaukee on Monday, September 11," said Grant U. Fisher yesterday. "The chances are," he continued, "that the track records will be broken and possibly some of the world's records will be lowered. The twenty-mile relay races of the Montana girls, four miles being run each day, were considered by the state board of Iowa as the most successful feature of the kind ever presented under their auspices and added interest will attend their presentation in the badge state owing to the fact that one of the riders entered to compete with the daring Westerners will be a Wisconsin girl. The exhibits and special attractions will be far superior to anything hitherto offered. The Siege of Port Arthur, the Arabs, and twenty-five other special entertainments have been procured and Liberator's band which has created a sensation wherever it has appeared, is preparing a special, entirely new program to please the music lovers of Milwaukee and Wisconsin. There are double the number of attractions, hitherto offered and they are more than twice as good."

POPULAR MERCHANT TALKS ABOUT CITY

Tells What Are the Greatest Needs of Janesville as a City of Today.

O. D. Bates, the grocer and provision dealer, says that he thinks the outlook for business for the next twelve months was never better. "I see reasons for this opinion on every hand," said he. "The lumber business is booming all over the country, the mines and miners are busy and there are no complaints. In Dun and Bradstreet's reviews from week to week there is every evidence of future prosperity. Another thing; the bank clearings favor good times. As to the needs of Janesville, Mr. Bates said that factories are the things needed; that we have the very best inducements to offer them, and that in his opinion we will have many more industries here within the next year now that determined efforts are being made in that direction. Mr. Bates has been engaged successfully in business here for the past ten or fifteen years. He has one of the best stores in this part of the state and he is recognized as a careful and conservative business man. He has seen many fall by the wayside during that time for one cause or another, but he has always enjoyed a good business and has never been short of funds so far as anyone knows."

SWARM OF BEES WAS LET LOOSE NEAR THE DEPOT

By Breaking of Case in Which They Were Being Shipped Out of Town.

At the St. Paul depot this morning a case of bees fell from the U. S. Express Co. truck which carried them to the baggage-car and breaking, liberated the whole swarm. Louis Henke, the express Co. driver, notified the shipper and in the meantime someone tried with indifferent success to charm the insects back into the box with tin-pan music. The box was left on the lawn with the hope that they would swarm when darkness falls tonight.

Enamel on Cards.

The enamel on address cards is produced by rubbing over the card a mixture of Kremnitz white, which is a fine variety of white lead. When dry the surface is rubbed with flannel dipped in powdered talc and polished by vigorous rubbing with a hard brush.

A Lake of Boiling Mud.

This remarkable lake, which is two miles in circumference, exists in the land of Java, near Solo. Masses of soft, hot mud, continually rise and fall, and huge mud bubbles, like balloons, explode with reports like guns, at the rate of three a minute.

Took a Chance.

At a recent parliamentary election in Carlisle, England, one of the candidates was named Chance. His placard read: "Give Carlisle a Chance." Those of his opponents read: "Take no Chances—Vote for Sanderson." But the electors took a Chance.

Bagpipes From Norway.

It is a curious fact that bagpipes were invented in Norway and thence imported into Scotland in a period when a portion of the country fell into Scandinavian hands.

NEW SYSTEM WILL HELP INDIVIDUALS

High School Teachers Will Devote Eighth of Each Day to Special Tutoring.

With the reopening of the Janesville public schools today a new system, for the assistance of the scholars in the high school who are unable to proceed with their studies as rapidly as the regular classes without tutoring, was established in the curriculum of that institution. The program of classes was so arranged that nearly every teacher will devote one period of the eight which constitute a school day to this special work and so that the students will be free from class work at the same time. In this way many failures will be averted. The attendance at all the schools today was of the usual proportions, each grade in the grammar schools having its ordinary quota and the high school nearly four hundred. The day was spent in organizing and the first lessons of the new school year will be recited tomorrow, assignments having been made today. At the high school the freshmen proved to be of the usual verdant quality and twelve of the upper classmen spent the entire morning in the office, atoning for their sins, having attempted to initiate a number of the "woolies."

A GREAT SIGHT.

Little Filipino People Just The Size of Dolls.

People of Janesville will have an opportunity this week to see the greatest attractions, if not the most wonderful that ever visited our city in its history. The Filipino midgets are here. The same little mites of humanity that the War Department of the United States government contracted for and brought to the World's Fair at St. Louis last year. In conversation with Mr. F. D. Kimball, whom you all know, he remarked that of all the interesting exhibits at the World's Fair, the Filipino midgets were the most wonderful of all. If you will stop and consider for one moment that there are in this city today little men and women over thirty years of age that measure in height just about the size of an ordinary doll that your babies play with each day, and that they entertain you in native songs, dances and acrobatic performances, you will agree with your townsman that you have an opportunity of visiting the greatest sight of a life-time. Tom Thumb was a great midget—we all agree. If he were alive today and stood beside the Filipino midgets he would, by actual measurement stand nine and eleven inches taller. Babies seven and eight months old who cannot stand alone are taller than the Filipino midgets. Beyond any doubt the Filipino midgets are the wonder of the age. At each reception and performance the little people walk from the stage along a run, especially built, to the center of the theatre, where the audience surrounds them, shaking hands and conversing with them. The little man speaks a great deal of English and is certainly very interesting to talk to. A visit to the Filipino Theatre, corner of W. Milwaukee and River streets will be worth while.

Caries or Decay

of the teeth is the most prevalent disease to which man is liable, and there is none other which acts so large a proportion of the human family. No other disease entails so much suffering, especially if we include those ailments that arise as the direct consequence of dental caries. The micro-organisms or germs, which cause this decay, habitually grow in the human mouth, and when conditions are favorable, rapidly produce caries. Keep your teeth perfectly clean and free from debris, and you will be practically immune from this trouble.

Baseball Talk of All Sorts

George S. Davis, the Great Chicago American League Shortstop and His Career --- Early Showed Ability --- Bayard H. Sharpe, Tenney's Outfielder.

George S. Davis, shortstop of the Chicago American league club, was born Aug. 28, 1870, at Cohoes, N. Y., and learned to play ball with the amateur clubs of his native place. Manager Thomas York, who had charge of the Albany club, heard of Davis and gave him a trial during the season of 1889.

At the close of that season York recommended him to the Cleveland club of the National league, which engaged him for the season of 1890. When the rival Cleveland club was consolidated Davis was one of the first players picked out by the management for a place on the 1891 team. Davis remained with the Cleveland club throughout the season of 1892. During the following winter he was exchanged for Ewing of the New York club. Davis remained with the New Yorks until 1902, when he jumped to the Chicago club of the American league.

In 1903 he lay idle, owing to a dispute over his services between the Chicago American league and the New York National league clubs. This was adjusted in the spring of 1904, and he returned to the Chicago club, for which he has since done brilliant work.

Bayard H. Sharpe, substitute outfielder of the Boston National league club, hails from Westchester, Pa., where he was born Aug. 6, 1881. After leaving the high school he entered Pennsylvania State college and graduated there in 1903 in electrical engineering. He played on the college team for four years, being captain the second. During the summer he played with Norwood, Chester, Norristown, Harrisburg, Altoona and Brandywine, capturing the last named team in 1903-04, playing first base and center field and batting for .374.

With the Brandywine club Sharpe played so well as to attract wide attention, and he received many major league offers, finally giving the Boston club his preference owing to the greater opportunity offered in that team for a young player. His friends all feel confident that he will continue to make good in the major league.

Last year the National league had the largest attendance in its history. Its paid admissions went away up over the million mark—nearer 2,000,000 in fact. Add to that about 300,000 free admissions and an approximate idea may be had of the number of persons who saw National league games last year.

The American league did not quite come up to those figures, but its season was the best it ever had and probably was within one-fourth of the National league's admissions.

Iroquois And Her Victory

Winning of Canada's Cup Was a Notable Feature of the Yachting Season. The Rival Skippers, Mabbett and Wedd. Timely Gossip.

One of the most notable yachting events of the season now closing was the victory of the American yacht, the Iroquois, in the contests for the Canada's cup.

The races were held on Lake Ontario, off Charlotte, and the defeat of the Canadian boat, the Temeraire, was accomplished only after a series of noteworthy struggles.

Lorenzo J. Mabbett of Rochester, N. Y., was the skipper of the successful craft, and great praise is due him for his skillful maneuvering with the Iroquois. E. K. M. Wedd of Toronto sailed the Temeraire.

Both sailors are slight in build, but full of vitality and nerve. Mabbett has had many years of sailing, beginning with skiffs, and last year at the Kingston (N. Y.) regatta he showed marked skill with the Chitina. In the trial races recently held his seamanship and jockeying were almost faultless.

Wedd is younger than Mabbett, not having reached the thirties, but he has a fine record as a yachtsman. He won three out of four races last year at Kingston with the Whirl, and the Peter II, and he has a long list of victories in Canadian waters to his credit. The Iroquois is larger than the Temeraire and consequently had to give the Canadian challenger a time allowance.

The dimensions of the Iroquois are as follows:

Length over all 52 ft.
Water line 43 ft.
Forward overhang 10 ft.
After overhang 12 ft.
Beam on deck 10 ft. 3 in.
Beam on water line 10 ft.
Draft 5 ft.
Ballast 1,500 sq. ft.
Mast 110 ft.
Ballast 6 tons.
Main boom 28 ft. 6 in.
Gaff 24 ft. 6 in.
Spinnaker boom 23 ft. 6 in.
Downspit outboard 7 ft. 4 in.

With all the Iroquois' larger dimensions, except in her mainsail and its rigging, she had 1,460 pounds less ballast than the Temeraire.

One of the biggest stumbling blocks in the way of races for the America's cup has been the question of rating rules for yachts taking part, and even now a challenge which might have been sent a year ago by Sir Thomas Lipton is being withheld for this very reason.

The yacht clubs of the east recently adopted a new rule of measurement calculated to drive out racing machines, and Sir Thomas is naturally anxious to have it apply to the next race for the coveted cup. He has, however, been unable to get a definite answer to his inquiries regarding the rules, and therefore does not send his challenge. All this embarrassment will be obviated in the future if the proposed meeting of yachtsmen of all countries, under the auspices of the British Yacht Racing association in England, succeeds in its endeavors to establish an international rating rule.

The clubs and associations invited to attend are quite willing to send delegates, and it is more than likely that action will be taken which will penalize the racing machine that it will become a thing of the past, at least as far as large yachts are concerned.

There is no association in this country which includes all yacht clubs, so the individual clubs should unite for the good of the sport.

The New York Yacht club has already taken steps to that end, and it is to be hoped that the other clubs will promptly join in the movement.

Baseball Attendance. With the increase in the number of organized leagues has come a corresponding increase in the attendance at the games. In fact, the attendance is what has been the baseball organizations.

King of Bunters. Keeler is the "king of bunters." His bunts are always well placed, rolling slowly along the third base line.

Ball Talk In Minor Leagues

"Big Larry" McLean of Portland, Ore., Is a Great Catcher --- He Should Soon Be In a Major League---New England Doings.

"Big Larry" McLean, the former St. Louis National, who is now playing with Portland, has made a hit with the fans of the new world's fair city. Before leaving St. Louis for the Pacific coast Larry was asked by Joe Flanner what he thought of his prospects in the far west. "Say, pal, I'm going to tell you something. I'm going to burn all the grass in that state," he replied.

McLean has certainly made good his promise to Mr. Flanner, and he is now McCreedy's most valued player. The big fellow is the sensation of the coast as a catcher, and he is slandering the ball around the diamond in great shape.

That Larry will not sojourn on the Pacific coast after this season is the opinion of many well-versed baseball critics. There are few catchers in either major league who can play as well as McLean. He is a great natural catcher, a good jollier, knows the game from A to Z and can run bases. He is a hard hitter.

Just how McLean ever came to escape from the National league is a problem. With the bunch of players who are now handling good pitchers in the Pullman league McLean would stand out like an oasis in the Sahara. Very few of the present-day catchers can throw and few can run. Besides, Larry has the physical makup for a catcher. He is so tall that it is practically impossible for a pitcher to make a wild pitch while he is doing the receiving.

Then, again, he is so heavy and powerful that he can catch day in and day out without going all to pieces like most catchers.

The trade that involved McLean for Thichman has turned out the best of recent years. It was of mutual benefit to St. Louis and Portland, for the Cardinals gained the sensational pitching find of the year, while Portland got in return for him the best catcher seen on the coast in many seasons.

Since joining Portland McLean has taken unto himself a wife. McLean's better half was formerly Miss Rose Knepper of St. Louis.

The marriage ceremony took place in Los Angeles.

Colonel William Laverty of the Brockton (Mass.) New England league states that he is ready to furnish backing to put a club in the New England league from either Brockton or Woonsocket next season. He is anxious to put up a forfeit for the refusal of a franchise next year.

McGinley, the Haverhill (Mass.) New England league pitcher, is now in his old form and sure to be picked up by some of the big clubs this season. Wallace, the Haverhill outfielder, is batting for .345 and is considered by Fred Lake just enough for the American league.

Jim De Pree, first baseman of the Michigan baseball nine, has accepted an offer to coach the University of Tennessee football eleven next fall. De Pree has never played on the varsity team at Michigan, but has been on the scrub for two seasons. The demand for Michigan men to coach football elevens apparently is so great that in the absence of regular players the colleges that need coaches will take the scrubs. Dan McGulgan of Michigan last season coached Vanderbilt, whose eleven won every game with the other southern teams and had only one score under 60 points. This has created a demand for Michigan men in the south.

Homer Heath, one of Michigan's broad jumpers, lost his right hand recently by having it blown off by a flashlight powder. He will not do any more jumping, it is said.

SUNDAY AT THE ADVENTISTS' CAMP

monies showed that they realized something of the great and good work before them, and resolved to make the most of their opportunities.

The children's meeting was conducted in the tent used for children's meetings. Miss Mary Cook of Bethel, Wisconsin, was in charge. The little ones highly enjoyed the morning service. No doubt the seed sown at this morning service will bear fruit for the kingdom of God.

Other Services. The Scandinavians had their meeting at 8 a. m. in the tent used for Scandinavian meetings. Elder L. H. Christian of Chicago, Illinois, occupied the pulpit. The elder's subject was "The Effectual Fervent Prayer of the Righteous." He produced several illustrations from the scripture of the power of effectual fervent prayer. The discourse was a feeling one, appreciated by all his hearers.

A meeting was held at 10:30 a. m. in the large pavilion by Prof. A. W. Hallock in the interest of education. Prof. Hallock is principal of the Bethel Industrial Academy located at Bethel, Wisconsin. The purpose of the academy is to provide a school to develop the powers of the youth, and give them a symmetrical character. The professor said, "The greatest want of the world is the want of men and women who will not be bought and sold; men who do not fear to call sin by its right name." The object of the school is to produce such characters. He showed that one prominent feature of the school work is to prepare the youth for the great work of giving to the world the Third Angel's Message, which is the everlasting gospel. It was for this purpose that the Wisconsin conference of Seventh-day Adventists in 1899 established the Bethel Industrial Academy. It was moved remote from the cities to avoid some of the influences of city life. The professor said that agriculture should be the A, B, and C of education. He also said there were many advantages in having our schools continue during the agricultural season. One of these advantages is that the students cause less trouble as they are more directly under the influence of the teacher who works with them. The professor then produced a picture representing teachers and pupils at work on the farm. Self government is an important feature of the school said the professor. The pupils taking an interest in everything pertaining to the school. The professor stated that the present worth of the school is $20,553.00.

At 8 a. m. Elder J. Kloss of Superior spoke to the Germans on the condition of the Jewish nation in the days of Christ. He made a striking comparison between those days and our days. The great mass were not prepared to receive the teachings of the meek and lowly Nazarene. The great heart of Christ was moved with compassion as he foresaw the awful doom of this favored people. The text declares, "When He was come near He beheld the city, and wept over it, saying if thou hadst known, even thou, even in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace, but now they are hid from thy eyes, for the days shall come upon thee that thy enemies shall cast a trench around thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, and shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knowest not the time of thy visitation." In these, our days, the dear Lord is likewise giving the people many signs of the end of this world, but true to the parable of the 14th chapter of Luke, the people are much more interested in the tidings of the world than they are in the things of God.

Fifth Conference Meeting.

The 5th annual session of the Wisconsin Conference of Seventh-day Adventists was held in connection with the camp meeting, August 30-Sept. 11, with Elder William Covert, president, in the chair. Elder E. W. Farnsworth invoked the blessing of God to rest upon the conference. Elder Wm. Covert stated that every church member in good standing in the Wisconsin Conference are delegates to this annual conference, and he invited every one present who sustain this relation to the conference to participate in the deliberations. The minutes of the last meeting of the last annual session were read and approved. In order to bring items of business before the conference it was moved and supported that a committee of fifteen be selected from the floor to constitute an advisory committee to appoint the necessary committees. The motion prevailed. The committee elected is as follows: Elder N. P. Neilsen, Oshkosh, chairman; Elder R. T. Dowsett, Milwaukee; Elder J. B. Scott, Madison; Elder C. W. Olds, Waukesha; Prof. A. W. Hallock, Bethel; Elder F. Stebbels, Monroe; Elder H. R. Johnson, Cambridge; Elder J. S. Shrock, Oshkosh; Elder F. F. Petersen, Baraboo; Elder Wm. Covert, Marshfield; Elder S. Swinson, Ladysmith; J. H. Bramhall, Madison; A. Paton, Lodi; Wm. Flugrad, Milwaukee; A. J. Olson, Marshfield. The first meeting of the committee of fifteen was called Sunday at 9 a. m., Elder N. P. Neilsen presiding. It was moved and supported that R. T. Dowsett act as secretary of the committee. The committees appointed were as follows: Committee on nominations: P. M. Hanson, J. H. Bramhall, Wm. Flugrad, J. B. Scott, A. Paton; committee on credentials and licenses: C. W. Olds, H. R. Johnson, F. Stebbels, F. F. Petersen, H. W. Reed; committee on plans: R. T. Dowsett, Dr. C. P. Farnsworth, N. P. Neilsen, A. J. Olson, A. W. Hallock, C. McReynolds, Wm. Covert; Committee adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

The second meeting of the conference was called at 4 p. m., Monday, September 4. Elder F. F. Petersen led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Two churches were received into the conference. One from Cadott which was recently organized by Elder McReynolds, and the other at Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Elder Covert then took a portion of the time in reading his annual report from which are gleaned the following items: That the Wisconsin conference has as workers nineteen ordained ministers, eleven licentiates, ten Bible workers, 28 teachers, four physicians, about thirty nurses and ten evangelistic canvassers. Five tents were supported in the field during the summer, two churches have been organized and several companies. The president further stated that the sanitarium at Madison is doing an excellent work. That many patients had been helped to health and that at least twenty of our brethren and sisters in the state have been saved from death by the medical aid received at the sanitarium. The conference adjourned to the call of the chair.

The 2:30 meeting in the large pavilion was conducted by Elder C. W. Olds of Waukesha. The elder's theme was the importance of the truth for this time. The elder showed that while there are many spurious or counterfeit doctrines and religious beliefs, truth never shone so brightly as today. The elder stated that there is today moral apostasy in the land. There are many professors, but they do not possess the piety that existed some forty years ago. I was lately asked by one of the ministers in one of the popular churches what could be done that our people become more pious. I told him that there were many things that might be done, but I would especially emphasize the preaching of the coming of Christ and rendering obedience to all of God's requirements. In closing the elder exhorted all to love and obey the truth, that they might have a right to the tree of life and enter in through the gates into the city.

At 7:45 p. m. the large pavilion was fairly well filled with an attentive and interesting audience. Elder E. W. Farnsworth occupied the pulpit. The subject of his discourse was, "The Four Great Empires of Prophecy." The elder called the attention of his audience to the 7th chapter of Daniel, presenting the symbols that are employed there to represent these four empires. The elder showed that the lion represented the Babylonian kingdom; the bear the Medo-Persian kingdom; the leopard, Greece; and the non-descript beast to be the fourth kingdom in this succession, which is Rome. The elder dwelt at considerable length upon this fourth symbol. Especially upon the three specifications found in Daniel 7:25, "And he shall speak great words against the most High, and he shall wear out the saints of the most high, and think to change times and laws; and they shall be given into his hand until a time and times and the dividing of time." The elder said that the little horn referred to in this verse is the great anti-Christian power; namely, the papacy. The first specification of this power is exactly fulfilled in the arrogant titles assumed by the papacy. The second specification that they should wear out the saints of the most high has been exactly fulfilled in the martyrdom of the saints. The third specification has been truly fulfilled by this power in its attempt to blaspheme the name of God in thinking to change God's law and God's time. He has thought to change the fourth commandment, the only commandment that speaks of God's time. He showed conclusively that all of these specifications have been met by this power and none other. Therefore those who keep Sunday instead of the seventh day, the Sabbath of the Lord, worship and obey the greatest enemy of God. He warned all against rendering obedience to this great, anti-Christian power.

Arrivals.

Elder G. C. Tenney and wife of Battle Creek arrived on the ground this morning. Elder Tenney is one of the teachers at the Battle Creek sanitarium and editor of the Medical Missionary. He was formerly a Wisconsin laborer. He has spent many years in foreign countries. Mrs. George Burgess, missionary from California to India, arrived at the camp today. She will address the audience Tuesday, 2:30 p. m., on the subject, "India's Needs." She will only remain a few days before starting on her return trip to India. Among other arrivals are Elders W. S. Shreve, Spring Green, and J. C. Nielsen of Neenah.

During the day there have been arrivals from the following named towns and cities: Berlin, Portage, Camp Douglas, Tomah, Madison, Oshkosh, and Milwaukee.

DISPLAYING THE SMART SMALL PLAID

Those small plaids that are largely replacing the shepherd's checks that have had such an extended run are among the prettiest of fabrics for autumn wear by the younger section of society. There is a certain youthful chic to them that is extremely fetching, and they, too, like so many more of the best things this year, demand but a minimum of trimming to achieve an appearance of smartness. The plaid is one of those green and brown mixtures in mohair, a hairline of black defying the blocks of color. The coat displays that fascinating little blouse front that simply refuses to be ousted from its position in the fashions; and the vest of white plaid that the rolled back fronts display adds much to the attractive appearance of the whole. The sleeve is a very moderate gigot style; the cuff piped with a band of white pique and the velvet turndown collar shows the same device. The coat skirts are long, pleats occupying front and back, and the fullness over the hips adjusted with shirrings. The skirt is pleated in each gore and cut to the correct walking-length all around.

Author of "Jennie Baxter, Journalist," Etc.

"You gave your consent at Northampton; thus I say you get her to the task, and well she performed it. If your men had done your bidding as faithfully, I had never crossed the Esk."

"You are quibbling. She is a traitor, and more honest than you; she admits it."

"I say she is a true woman," cried Armstrong, red anger flushing his brow. The hot border blood sprang into mastery for the first time during their controversy, and he failed to note that Cromwell remained cold as at the beginning, and might be negotiated with, if he had remembered the commander's resolve to enlist the Scot in his service. But before the general could give him a bargain, the impetuosity of the younger man left him only the choice of killing the Scot where he stood, or apparently succumbing to him, a most dangerous alternative had Armstrong to deal with one less schooled in the repression of his feelings than Cromwell. The ill advised borderer dropped his hat silently to the floor, flashed forth his sword and presented it at his opponent's throat.

"They tell me you wear concealed armor," his voice was quiet in its intensity, almost a whisper—"but that will not help you. No human power can avail you at this moment, for if you cry out my blade advances, and a bit of your backbone sticks to the point of it. You see I cannot help myself, but must kill you unless I get your promise."

Cromwell sat rigid, not a muscle of face or body moving. The sword was held as steady as a beam of the roof. "I implore you to heed me," continued the young man, seeing the other did not intend to speak. "I implore you, as if I were on my bended knees before you, and my life in your hands,

The man withdrew and Cromwell resumed his walk, making no comment on the brief dialogue. William blew a long whistle, then he laughed a little.

When the colonel came in, Cromwell turned to him and said:

"Is that malignant brewer, chaplain to Lord Roderick, in the cells yet?"

"Yes, excellency."

"Tell your men to clear out the chapel at once and light it. There are some stores in it, I think, and bring the reverend graybeard to me."

In a few moments the colonel returned, accompanied by an aged clergyman, who, despite his haggard and careworn look and bent shoulders, cast a glance of hatred at the general which seemed to entitle him to the epithet Cromwell had bestowed upon him. To this silent defiance Cromwell paid no attention, but said to him:

"Sir, you may earn your liberty tonight by marrying two young people in the chapel."

"That will I not," returned the clergyman stoutly, "and all your tyranny cannot compel me to do so."

"The wench," continued Cromwell, unmoved, "you already know. She is Frances Wentworth, daughter of the late Earl of Stratford. The groom stands here before you—William Armstrong, a Scot, who has but lately carried a message from the man Charles, at Oxford, to Traquair on the border. I should hang him, but he prefers the noose you, and tie to one my hands might prefer."

The old clergyman looked at Armstrong with an interest he had not displayed on entering the room. "Have you, then, seen his gracious majesty the king?"

"Yes, reverend sir, and but a few days ago."

"And carried his message safe through those rebellious hordes now desecrating the land?"

"I implore you to heed me," continued the young man, seeing the other did not intend to speak. "I implore you, as if I were on my bended knees before you, and my life in your hands, gether here in the sight of God, and in the face of this congregation, to join together this man and this woman in holy matrimony, which is an honorable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocence, signifying unto us the mystical union that is betwixt Christ and his church; which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence, and first miracle that he wrought in Cana of Galilee."

As the sonorous words resounded in the ancient chapel the old man straightened himself, the former anger in his face gave way to a benignant expression and his attitude took on all the grave dignity of his calling. He went on with the service until he came to the words:

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?"

Cromwell stepped forward and said brusquely, "I do."

The clergyman seemed to have forgotten the commander's presence, and now paused when it was recalled to him; then he went on to the end.

Once more on horseback, and clear of Corbiston Manor, his hand stole into his.

"Well," he said, "which way?"

"If you are willing, I will take the way known to me, and lead you to my home; tomorrow you may take the way known to you, and lead me to yours."

"Frances, I am ready to follow wherever you lead."

And so they went forth together in the glamour of the moonlight.

PASTOR IN A CELL FOR THEFT

Unable to Return From Vacation Because of His Conviction.

Sloux City, Iowa, Sept. 5.—The failure of Rev. Z. Henry Lewis, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Pella, to return from his annual vacation resulted in the discovery that he has been serving a sentence in the workhouse at Minneapolis for the theft of a diamond ring from a department store. Further inquiry established the fact that he had been corresponding with a school-teacher at Mankato and had made violent love to her, notwithstanding the fact that he has a wife and children at Pella. The Mankato woman has turned forty letters from him over to the authorities. Lewis is a brilliant speaker. His church has formally expelled him from the ministry.

New Point in Law Arises When Juror Disappears During Trial.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 5.—A question of law is to be decided before the prosecution of Nate Tate, negro politician of twenty years' police record, can be proceeded with, and it is a new one. Tate is said to have whipped his white wife. After much trouble he was placed on trial before a jury. The morning of the second day one juror failed to report and he cannot be found. The judge has discharged the jury. Tate's attorneys contend that he was once placed in jeopardy and cannot again be tried. When the trial began the white woman was brought to court as a witness, but Tate did not want her taken into the court. Therefore, he knocked the policeman who was escorting her through a glass door, for which he has not been punished.

Weak Stomach.

A weak stomach is most frequently caused by the overworked and exhausted nervous system.

The power that runs the stomach is the nerve force sent to it from the brain through the nerves. When the nerves are weak or exhausted the supply of energy is insufficient and the action of the stomach is impaired, and results in imperfect digestion—dyspepsia.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine increases nerve force. It strengthens and builds up nerve tissue, gives vigor to the nerves and muscles of the stomach; this produces a healthy activity.

Nervine allays the inflammation, heals the membranes, and makes the stomach strong and healthy. There is nothing that so quickly gives energy to the whole system as Restorative Nervine.

"I can't say enough for Dr. Miles' Nervine. I don't know what it will do for others, but it certainly cured me of stomach trouble, and now I'm as well as ever. Two physicians failed to relieve me, but in three or four days after taking Nervine I was much relieved. From that time I have been a sound man, at the cost of $4.00."

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world — A Mother's Love: the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this element to cherish and appreciate in this love Mother's Friend was devised to lessen the pain and anguish of childbirth, that her love might not be strained to the breaking point. Mother's Friend does all this and more. It enables the fond mother to recuperate from the labors of maternity, enables her to regain her lost strength, preserves her youthful lines of beauty, and makes pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

Is applied externally, is most harmless in its constitution, most happy in its results, and is of such merit that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdominal muscles during pregnancy, and by its use greatly enhances the power of contraction to sustain the great strain brought to bear on them at this time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to mothers. Send for free book containing information of prices.

RT. REV. CLELAND KINLOCH NELSON, D. D.

Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga.

"The Yoke is a clear and sweet romance of the highest interest. It deals with a period and events concerning which the reader has sympathy in advance. As an indication of the attraction which the book has, a lady of my acquaintance picked it up one evening and, despite the fact that she was seriously ill, did not drop it until completed."

REV. H. O. HISCOX, D. D.

Calvary Baptist Church, Albany, N. Y.

It is a remarkable book! Sweet and pure in conception and faultless in expression. It fascinates as sorcery, charming the imagination and ennobling the senses as only truth can.

REV. JAMES H. HOADLEY, D. D.

Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church, New York.

THE YOKE is a great book and will take its place beside BEN HUR as one of the most fascinating biblical romances of modern times. As a love story it is unsurpassed, and only a woman, with a woman's deep and true intuitions, could have written it.

We have secured the serial rights for THE YOKE, and will begin its publication in our next issue.

STORM ON LAKE DESTROYS LIFE

Worst Gale in Years Sweeps Over Superior, Dealing Ruin to Shipping.

WRECKAGE STREWS WATERS

Fifty Ships of All Kinds Are Known to Have Been Out When the Blow Began, With Indications That Many Have Gone to the Bottom.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 5.—The stories of shipwreck and loss of life that are beginning to come to shore prove that the gale which swept over Lake Superior Sunday and Sunday night was the most destructive to life and shipping in years.

The schooner Pretoria, with five of its crew of ten men, was lost, and the schooner Olive Jeannette is believed to have gone to the bottom.

Fifty ships—steamers, schooners and barges—are known to have been out on the lake during the gale. Many of these have not been reported, but all vessels arriving at Lake Superior ports report passing large quantities of wreckage of all kinds.

From eighteen to twenty-two lives are believed to have been lost and the property loss will reach nearly half a million dollars.

Six persons who escaped in a boat from the steamer Savonia have reached Bayfield. The bodies of Capt. McDonald and one of his crew were washed ashore at Sand Island.

Part of Crew Drowns.

The Pretoria, in tow of the steamer Venezuela, bound from Allouez to South Chicago with ore, sank off Outer Island at 4:30 Saturday morning after the parting of the tow line. Capt. Smart and nine sailors put off from the vessel in a small yawl and started for land, a distance of twenty miles. The yawl capsized in the heavy seas at 5:30 o'clock, and five of the men in the boat were drowned. They were: Engineer Henry Schwab; Axel Lindoff, Isaac Meyer, Alfred Peterson and Frank Wales, colored, of Chicago.

Capt. Smart and the other four men righted the boat and, after a heroic struggle, landed on Outer Island, one mile from the light-house.

Olive Jeannette Missing.

There is scarcely any hope that the schooner Olive Jeannette succeeded in riding out the gale. A large mass of wreckage sighted fifteen miles off Portage Entry indicates that the schooner was lost with its crew of seven men. The tug D. L. Hobard, which was sent out, passed through wreckage which indicated that the ship from which it came had gone down in the storm with the loss of its entire crew. Some of the wreckage was marked "Olive," which made the crew of the tug believe that the lost boat was the schooner Olive Jeannette. A basket, however, was marked "F. W. Gilchrist," and there is a steamer by that name which was on Lake Superior at the time.

Rescued From the Savona.

Six of the missing eleven men of the crew of the steamer Savona, wrecked Friday night, have arrived at Bayfield. Capt. McDonald's body was washed ashore at Sand Island. The body of Wheelman Nels Schrum also came ashore. The bodies of the other five have not been recovered.

Four women were on board, including the wife of the cook, C. H. Clucky. The others were aboard as guests of the owners, and were Mrs. S. F. Spencer and Miss Jones of Erie, and Mrs. William Phillips of Buffalo. On Friday the steamer ran into the teeth of the northeast, which was still blowing a terrific gale. Capt. McDonald tried to make headway against the heavy sea, but the storm became too heavy, and he turned and ran for shelter.

Sand Island is in the center of a patch of dangerous reefs. One and a half miles east of the light on the island is the Sand Island reef. The storm was so severe that the lookout did not see the Raspberry Island light. When the Sand Island light-house was sighted it was too late. Capt. McDonald tried to put about and get out of the apparent danger, but the storm was sweeping him on the reefs with a fury not to be denied.

Seven Volunteer to Die.

When the vessel finally struck a great hole was torn in the bow, and only half an hour after the wreck the pounding of the waves had hammered the ship in two.

When the shock came the captain found that there was no chance for all to try to reach shore, and called for volunteers to stay on the ship. More than half of the crew volunteered to stay aboard, while the rest tried to reach shore and call for help for those who were to remain on the wreck. Finally the captain, the two mates, and four others—salvors who were under no obligation to stand by a sinking ship—were selected to risk their lives for the safety of the rest.

The storm had battered the third boat to pieces, but a small boat, large enough to carry four, took another party. The boat with the women tried to make Sand Island, but was swept past it. Nothing could be done save to keep the craft afloat. When the boats left the Savona the seven left aboard were huddled in the wheel-house waiting for the rescue that was to come too late.

Child Is Mature.

There is living at Recife, near Pernambuco, a child of five and one-half years who is four feet and two inches in height, and who boasts a mustache and a deep bass voice.

"HOMELESS TWENTY-SIX."

Lonely Traveling Men's Organization Forms Branch Society at Chicago. "The Homeless Twenty-Six," whose regular habitat, as nearly as can be determined, is somewhere within Pittsburgh, Pa., recently sent two wandering delegates to Chicago to organize some of the floating population of that city into a local branch, apparently for no other reason than that misery loves company, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Contrary to what might be expected, the society, although labeled "homeless" and identified by a strange, unintelligible badge worn by the members which looks like an algebraic formula, is not composed of "Wandering Willies" and dusty tie pacers, but is made up of traveling, business and professional men.

Twenty-six is the mystic number, because twenty-six traveling men, unable to reach their homes last Thanksgiving, which was on Nov. 26, ate dinner together at a hotel in Pittsburgh and became the charter members. From a membership of twenty-six the organization has increased to 6,500, with branches in several large cities. The intention of the members is to add Chicago to the list.

W. S. Williams and Hiram Schoch of Pittsburgh, who are themselves of the original twenty-six, a few nights ago gathered together a hundred or more of the outcasts of Chicago who wear the badge of the homeless and laid plans for regular gatherings, with headquarters at the Auditorium. No announcement was made as to who will be the executive head of the nomads, but undoubtedly it will be some prominent Chicago business or professional man.

"We first felt the need of an organization like this to promote sociability among traveling men when the original twenty-six found themselves stranded in Pittsburgh last Thanksgiving," said Mr. Schoch.

"We wanted to enjoy our dinner in congenial company and not together for that purpose. Our stomachs started the movement, but our hearts were back of it and we are using our heads to make a success of the organization."

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

A Poem on Death by the Late Mary Mapes Dodge.

The death of Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor, writer of stories and poet, which occurred recently, gives touching appropriateness to this very human poem by her on death, which, by the way, has been widely attributed to Walt Whitman, says the New York Globe.

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

In the middle of the room, near the ceiling, sat Walt Whitman, holding a beautiful little girl on his lap. She looked wonderingly at the spectacle of death and then inquiringly into the face of the aged poet. "You don't know what it is, do you, my dear?" said he, and added, "We don't either."

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still; The folded hands, the awful calm, the check to pain and chill; The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call; The strange white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart pain; This dread to take our daily way and walk in it again; We know not to what other sphere the lovers who leave us go; Nor why we're left to wonder still nor why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and dead, if they should come this day—Should come and ask us, "What is life?" not one of us could say. Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be. Yet, oh, my dear, it is to us, this life we live and see!

Then might they say—these vanished ones—and blessed be the thought: "So death is best to us, beloved, though we may grieve you taught. We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death; Ye cannot tell us, if ye would, the mystery of breath."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent; So all who enter death must go as little children sent. Nothing is known, but, nearing God, what hath the soul to dread? And as life is to the living so, death is to the dead.

Bertillon's "Speaking Portraits."

M. Bertillon, who created the anthropometric method of identifying criminals, superintended some fresh methods at the Palais de Justice recently, says the Washington Post's special correspondent at Paris. The innovation is known as the "speaking portrait." One hundred and two members of the detective and other services were present. To each one was given a verbal "portrait"—that is to say, a description of one of his colleagues present—and he was asked to find in the assembly the one to whom the portrait applied. The experiments were highly satisfactory. Nearly all the detectives found their man. M. Bertillon was warmly congratulated by Signor Niccero, professor of criminology at the University of Naples, who witnessed the tests, which took place in public.

Benevolence on a Yacht.

The Rev. J. Antie, a Canadian missionary, is a smart yacht skipper. Dr. Hutton, formerly of the Garfield Memorial hospital in Washington, knows engineering. Together they are conducting a benevolent quest in the logging and fishing camps about Vancouver, says the New York World. Mr. Antie had a craft built at a cost of $4,000 to serve as a floating church and hospital. Her cabin holds a congregation of sixty. She has two hospital beds, medicines and operating tools. If these are not sufficient the Columbia can carry ill or injured men to a base hospital at Rock Bay. The skipper is the preacher; the doctor is the engineer. One deckhand and a cook complete the crew.

Frost in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 5.—Several places in western Nebraska report a light frost. Little corn is grown over the district reporting frost, but small vegetation suffered considerably.

Deeds of Heroism

Courageous Acts In the Rescue of Men Imprisoned in Tunnel.

Workmen Who Thought Themselves Entombed. Built Dam and Saved Fellow Laborers From Drowning.

History has never recorded greater deeds of bravery and valor than have been enacted in the drama at the portal of the Gunnison tunnel in the attempt to rescue the men who were buried by the recent cave-in, says the Pueblo (Colo.) Chieftain. Nineteen men voluntarily built a dam that caused the water to rise around them to fill the cell in which they were entombed that seven others might not suffer death by drowning after having been pinned under timbers and debris. Two hundred men working with might and main risked their lives every minute in an attempt to rescue the imprisoned men. H. C. Steele, one of the entombed men, asked for a cigarette as his first request, and another one, Benjamin Taylor, lay flat on his back with his neck across a railroad rail, four heavy timbers resting on his shoulders and legs and his feet imbedded in water. He was only able to move one hand, yet with the rescuers within two feet of him and unable to come nearer for fear of bringing down other timbers he said he was doing first rate.

Nineteen men were taken out alive. Two men, Taylor and Steele, though crushed between timbers, were close enough to their rescuers to converse with them, but the character of the dirt and timbers around them was such that it became necessary to start a new shaft and sink it to a point below the men and take them out from the bottom. Any attempt to reach them from the top would probably have resulted in a settling of the timbers, causing death to both. It was at their suggestion that the plan to tunnel under was agreed upon.

The last man to die was Fred Gross. The rescuers had been within two feet of him all day, and the light from their lanterns showed that his body was bent back across some heavy timbering. He complained of his cramped position and urged the men to "push the work of rescue as rapidly as possible. But it was impossible to get closer to him, because every time it was attempted the dirt would slide in from the top. It was noticed that his voice grew weaker. The rescuers peered through the timbers, and it could be seen that the rock and mud from above had sunk and was gradually bending his back almost double. A beam had caught his chin so that he could not utter a sound, and his body gradually ceased its quivering and was apparently lifeless. The rescuers were frantic, but could do nothing. His suffering must have been terrible, but timbers across his chin forbade him making it known.

Edward Schuler was supposed to have been crushed in a similar manner. He and Charles Smiley were side by side when the cave-in occurred. The force of the falling dirt rendered Smiley unconscious. When he revived he was clasping Schuler's hand. He pressed it, and Schuler answered. Smiley spoke to Schuler, but received no reply. He then tried to run his hand up Schuler's arm to the latter's face, but broken timbers and dirt interfered. The man's head was literally held in one position by twisted timbers and rock. Smiley says that Schuler's hand pressure became less and less for about two hours, and finally the hand dropped to the side of the body, limp and lifeless.

The rescue of Theodore Grasser and Charles Smiley will always form one of the thrilling pages of Colorado's history of brave deeds. After Smiley noticed that Schuler was dead he began an attempt to rescue himself. A 12 by 18 inch boxing ring along the lower corner of the tunnel at this point for air purposes. He managed to turn around and work himself down to this boxing ring and noticed that it was broken and had filled up with mud and water. Knowing that there was an opening in the boxing twelve feet further on toward the inner portion of the tunnel, he closed his eyes and held his breath and literally crawled the twelve feet through the mud, slush and sand until he reached the other opening, where he was enabled to emerge into a small space made by the cave-in, and where he secured a little fresh air and breathing spell. Here he found Grasser held by some fallen timbers and dirt. He managed to pull these apart and rescue his imprisoned companion, and the two men began to call through the boxing. The seventeen men on the inside of the tunnel responded. The two men tapped on the wooden boxing and the seven men showed a gas pipe through to the prisoners. Grasser was the first to catch hold of the pipe, and he was literally dragged through the mud, water and the sand to the other side of the cave-in. Again the gas pipe was pushed back, and Smiley clutched it and was rescued in a similar way.

When the cave-in took place the seventeen men not directly under the slide realized that the seeping water would, if allowed to run through, drown all those not already dead who were under the pile of dirt and timbers. They noticed that the seepage was from above their own room. Knowing full well the death it probably meant to them, but in order to assist in saving their more unfortunate comrades, they set about and erected a dam across the tunnel near the cave-in and continued building it higher and higher as the seeping water rose in their own prison cell. They used the loose timbers and rock, filled the cracks with mud and even slipped off their own clothing to stop up crevices. When the shaft from above was finally sunk to them the water was up almost to the shoulders of many of the men and was above the hips of them all. No sooner had they been placed on the ground above them than they joined the army of volunteers working so valiantly to rescue the two imprisoned men.

The rescuers found the nineteen men in good spirits. Theodore Grasser was the first man extracted. He was very weak from exhaustion and bruises received by being caught in the cave-in. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the rescuers came to a point where they could talk with Steele. They could see him standing between four timbers and hemmed in in such a manner as to be able to move only one hand. "Are you hurt?" said Resident Engineer McDonnell.

"No, but terribly crowded. Give me a cigarette," was Steele's reply. McDonnell lighted a cigarette and stuck it through a crack, and Steele took it.

with one hand and smoked it. A little later they got within talking distance of Taylor. He reported that he was lying flat on his back.

The scenes around the mouth of the tunnel beggared description. The relatives of the imprisoned men were held back by ropes stretched around the places where the rescuers were at work. When the shaft was completed and as one by one the nineteen men were lifted out in many cases their relatives fainted with joy upon seeing them alive.

Flies as Germ Carriers.

The house fly is of itself a great disseminator of disease, putrefaction and polluting as it does the food and drink of man. Military authorities have noticed that officers whose tents were fly screened suffered proportionately less from the attack of typhoid fever than did those whose tents were unprotected. The latter seems well nigh impossible, but one of the two must be done. The mosquito carries malaria and yellow fever, the rat carries the plague, the cat and the dog hydrophobia, the hog trichina, the sheep, cattle and horses anthrax and glanders, and they all carry tuberculosis.—Leslie's Magazine.

Test for Chauffeurs.

At a recent automobile meet in England one of the competitions was to test the capacity of the chauffeurs to judge the pace at which their respective machines were traveling.

UNREST AT KISHINEV AND BAKU

Fear That Riots May Develop Into Organized Revolt Causes Grave Concern at St. Petersburg—Anarchists Fire 150 Buildings.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—Reports of desperate fighting between the troops and the populace continue to come from Kishinev and Baku, and grave concern is felt lest what now appears to be but riots develop into the preliminaries of an organized revolt.

Coming as it does so closely after the issuance of the manifesto of the czar calling elections for the new national assembly, and while the government is doing all in its power to impress upon the minds of the people the importance of the elections, the news of the uprisings gives more than ordinary concern to the emperor and his advisers.

Troops Charge Funeral Procession.

A report from Kishinev says that during the progress of a Jewish funeral procession Monday the soldiery were compelled to charge. Hundreds of workmen were following the casket containing the body of a Jewish woman who had been killed by roughs.

Suddenly shots were heard, and then the troops and police appeared galloping among the mourners with drawn sabers and revolvers. Several workmen were killed, dozens were wounded, and fifty were placed under arrest.

The officers declined to give any explanation of the cause of the affair and refused to allow sympathizers to accompany the wounded to the hospital. The Jewish hospital was surrounded by troops when the last report arrived, and patrols were stationed at central points in the town. It is feared that further bloodshed will occur.

Corpses Strew Streets of Baku.

Dispatches from Baku to the Department of the Interior Monday night are to the effect that the streets are strewn with corpses as a result of the riots begun there Saturday.

It is estimated that 100 were killed and a hundred wounded in the first clash between strikers and the czar's troops.

Over 150 Buildings Have Been Fired by the Anarchists.

The strikers were fully armed and opened fire on the troops first, killing several.

Prince Nishneradze Is Among the Wounded.

Then the soldiers began firing, and the fighting continued for half an hour, when the rioters dispersed.

Desultory attacks were made on the troops all day Sunday and Sunday night, and several more rioters have been killed and wounded.

The soldiers are now operating the street cars until men can be secured to take the places of the strikers, who are all Tartars.

Further fighting is anticipated and more troops will be dispatched to the scene.

The situation not only at Baku, but also throughout the Caucasus, has been exceedingly tense for weeks.

The disorders at Shusha had just ceased when the street car strike at Baku furnished the occasion for another outbreak.
